

Vestwell Trading Policies and Procedures

Thank you for using the Vestwell Platform to support your retirement plan and savings account. Our proprietary platform makes it easy to initiate transactions. All transactions on our platform will be subject to these Trading Policies, which may be updated from time to time. Vestwell does not provide legal, tax, accounting, or any investment advice. We provide fee disclosures and other notices and general education materials to help you understand your benefits, rights, and features of your retirement plan or savings account that is supported by our services. You should read them carefully. You may also wish to consult with your own financial or other professionals before making any investment decisions. By using our platform and services and registering for a Vestwell account, you are confirming that you have read and understood these policies. If you have any questions about these policies or need technical assistance, please contact help@vestwell.com.

1. All Transactions are Subject to Rules and Procedures

All transactions, including investment changes, loans, and distributions, are subject to rules and procedures promulgated by the New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ, National Securities Clearing Corporation, the fund provider of any investment you select for your account, as well as our sub-custodian's rules and procedures regarding excessive trading, marketing timing, and other legal requirements. As required by the fund providers and exchanges, all transaction requests submitted after market close will be processed on the next trading day. In order to facilitate order aggregation and delivery, any requests that include ETFs need to be submitted by 2:00 pm EST. On days when the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") closes early, the deadline to submit transaction requests will be adjusted accordingly. Additionally, we may not be able to process rebalances and distributions if there are pending trades and/or other requests submitted in your account at that time.

Vestwell will not be liable for any losses or decline in value in any account due to market or geopolitical conditions or any other similar factors between the time a transaction is initiated and processed and for any other reason consistent with the terms of our Services Agreement and Platform Terms of Use.

We will also not be responsible for any failure or delay to implement any trading instruction that is not provided to us in Good Order. With respect to this policy and our Corrections Policy, Good Order means all instructions must be submitted to us in our required format, by our required deadline, following all submission and other procedures on our platform, and without any interpretation or other action necessary on our part so that we can fulfill the instruction without any additional information or verification from an outside source or other third party.

Vestwell will not be responsible for any monetary losses, fines, penalties, or other damages caused by a delay or failure of the Plan Sponsor or the Plan's investment fiduciary to provide us with the Plan's investment selections, execute waivers or participation agreements required by various fund providers, or any related activities. The Plan Sponsor or investment fiduciary is responsible for the timely and proper performance of all of those activities. In the event of a system error or other contingency or dependency that prevents trades not being sent for execution on the trading day in which they were processed, Vestwell will send trades for execution on the next trading day. The saver or Plan will receive the price as of the day of execution.

It is the participant's responsibility to verify the address for all inbound rollover checks. In the event of a lost or missing incoming rollover check, the participant must contact the Plan's prior recordkeeper to initiate a stop payment request. Vestwell cannot and does not initiate those activities nor do we track them in our system. We will process your rollover when we receive it in Good Order.

2. Changing Investment Selections and Allocations

Participants in a retirement plan supported on our platform are always solely responsible for making their investment selections. After enrolling in your employer's plan, you can select and change your investments using various methods to accommodate participants' comfort levels with choosing their investments. All investment options available to your Plan are selected by your Plan's investment fiduciary and you may or may not have all of the investment methods with the characteristics described below available to your Plan:

- Core Lineup – provides a lineup of individual funds. .

- Age-Based Investments – A set of Target Date Funds or target date models aligned to the year in which the participant plans to retire. We assume that participants intend to retire at age 65 by default if the participant does not indicate a desired age of retirement. Participants can select more or less conservative options from the Age-Based Investment that is displayed to them.
- Risk-Based Investments – A series of model portfolios that allow participants to select from a range of conservative to aggressive strategies.
- Goal-Based Investments - This is the Advisor Managed Accounts feature that incorporates the investment options that your Plan's investment fiduciary has selected for your Plan. Based on information that you and/or your employer provide to us, the feature suggests a possible investment allocation that you can accept or change at any time. This feature is not available for all Plans on our platform at this time.

Investment education materials with information about these options are available on the participant portal of our platform.

After selecting initial investments, you can change your selections at any time by logging into your account. Changes submitted in Good Order prior to the trading cutoffs and processing rules described above will be placed in line for processing that same trading day (subject to our order of operation and procedures for multiple investment selection changes made in a single trading day); selections submitted after that time will be executed on the following trading day.

If a participant submits multiple investment selection changes during the same trading day, we follow a different procedure. If the first change is still in a processing state when we receive any subsequent investment selection change, the subsequent change will be queued and not actioned until the initial request is complete. If we have not yet started processing the first investment selection change when we receive a subsequent change, we will cancel the first instruction submitted and only process the last investment selection change submitted before the daily submission deadline.

Participants cannot change their investments when the Plan is in a temporary blackout period. In that instance, investment election changes can be requested, but may not be actioned or fully implemented until after the blackout period. New deposits will be traded according to investment elections on file at the time of the trade request; any rebalances requested during a blackout period will be implemented after the blackout period ends. Participants will be sent a Blackout Notice if these or other restrictions apply to them.

3. The Investment Fiduciary's Role in Monitoring and Changing Investments Offered by your Plan

Your Plan's investment fiduciary is identified in fee disclosure notices provided to you with your welcome notice and annually. The investment fiduciary selects and monitors the investment options available to Plan participants and will also review the performance, fees, and other aspects of the investment options and may make changes to the investment menu. If the investment fiduciary determines that any material changes are made to the investment options available to your Plan, they will be communicated to participants. When your Plan's investment fiduciary makes a change to the allocations of a model strategy or Target Date Fund that you are invested in, your full account balance will be automatically rebalanced to reflect the new allocations.

If your Plan offers the Advisor Managed Accounts feature, our platform will base a displayed asset allocation on the information provided by your employer (such as your age). You can provide additional information to your profile at any time, and the suggested allocations may change. You can accept or change those displayed allocations at any time. More information about the Managed Accounts feature will be provided to enrolled participants. More information about the responsibilities of your Plan's investment fiduciary are explained here.

4. Account Rebalancing

Over time, the investment allocations in your account may drift from the original target allocations that you created when you last made your investment selections or when you were default invested (if your Plan has a default investment option). When drift occurs, you can choose to rebalance your account (either on a one-time or recurring basis) and we will buy and sell securities to conform as closely as possible to your selected allocations. By default, our platform sets all accounts to automatically rebalance every quarter with the exception of participant accounts that are transitioned to our platform from a prior recordkeeper where asset mapping was used for the Plan. Automatic rebalancing is typically completed by the second week following quarter end. You may also disable or re-enable recurring automatic rebalancing at any time. Our policy and practices regarding rebalancing the accounts enrolled in any managed account feature are subject to change without advance notice to any enrolled participant.

Participants with accounts enrolled and invested in our managed accounts feature (also known as “Goal Based Investments” in some materials) may have their accounts rebalanced and recalibrated by the Vestwell Goals Optimization Engine, as described in disclosure materials provided to participants enrolled in that feature. Additionally, participants enrolled in the managed account feature cannot disable automatic quarterly rebalancing for as long as their accounts remain invested in that feature. Our policy and practices regarding rebalancing the managed account portfolios are subject to change without advance notice to any enrolled participant.

Participants with accounts enrolled and invested in Morgan Stanley’s 401(k) Manager are invested in portfolios selected by Morgan Stanley. The trading functions, rules, and activities are handled by Morgan Stanley and explained in materials provided to enrolled participants.

5. Changes to Models and Core Lineup

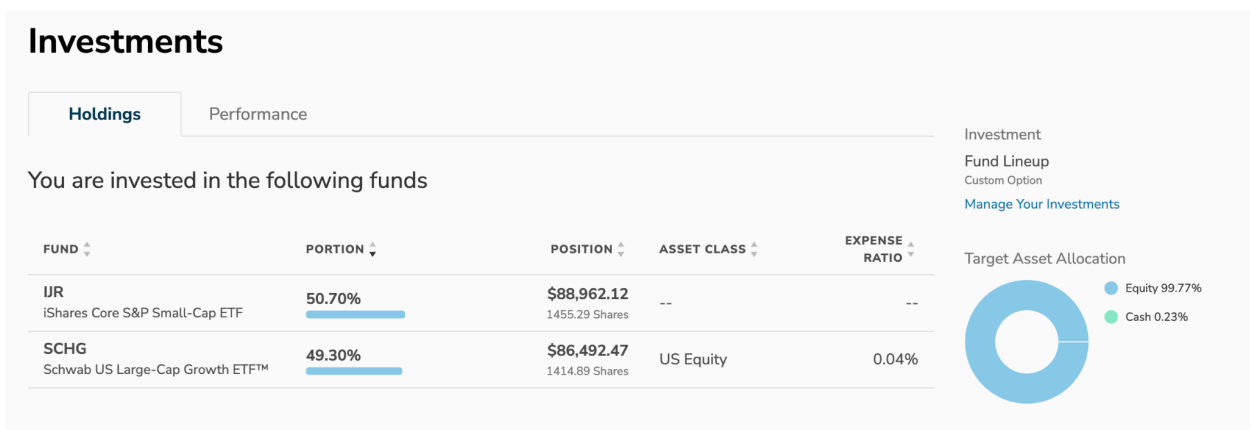

Our platform requires the investment fiduciary for your Plan to submit the initial investment lineup or changes to it in a specific format. In general, changes made within a model (including fund additions, removals, and allocation changes) take at least ten business days to process after submission in Good Order. Changes to the core lineup take a minimum of 45 days to process because we are legally required to send a notice to affected participants and eligible employees generally at least 30 days ahead of the change.

6. Investment Performance

You can view investment performance for all holdings in their retirement Plan by logging into your account and accessing the “Portfolio” tab. Our platform will update your account with the performance of your selected investments shortly after the first full month in which your account has a balance.

Within the “Portfolio” section of the portal, you can also view the names, allocation, market value, and expense ratio of the individual funds in your account. You can also access fact sheets for each fund, which provide additional information about investments such as the general strategy and top five holdings. For Plans where Vestwell Advisors serves as the investment fiduciary, factsheets are updated on a quarterly basis.

Additionally, by clicking on “Transactions,” participants can view all activity within their account. This includes contributions, withdrawals, dividends, rebalances, fees, and any other account activity. The Transaction Log is updated as of the close of the previous business day. If you notice any activity that you do not recognize or did not authorize, you must contact us immediately at help@vestwell.com or call (917) 979-5358.

7. Statements

Participants are provided with account statements each quarter. All statements will be posted shortly after the end of each calendar year quarter in the “My Plan” section of the participant portal. These statements provide participants with details regarding the previous quarter's contributions, holdings, investment earnings, and balance. If you notice any activity that you do not recognize or did not authorize, you must contact us immediately at help@vestwell.com or call (917) 979-5358.

8. Loans

Your Plan may allow participants to borrow against their vested retirement Plan account balance to purchase a primary home or for other purposes. Please refer to your Plan document and Loan Policy Statement to confirm whether your employer adopted a loan feature and instructions about obtaining one. Please note that your Plan may impose limits regarding how many loans one participant can take at any time, as well as the maximum amount of any loan. Participants who wish to borrow against their retirement plan balance can submit an application on our platform. It generally takes seven to ten business days to review a loan application after it is submitted in Good Order. Please note that if you have terminated your employment with the company whose Plan was serviced by Vestwell, you are no longer eligible to take a loan from your account. There is also a fee to initiate a loan and to annually service it; this fee is disclosed to you on fee disclosure notices that are provided to you with your registration and annually.

9. Hardship Withdrawals

Your Plan might also permit participants to withdraw from their vested account balance in case of a financial hardship. The IRS requires certain documentation or confirmation from the participant in order to obtain a hardship withdrawal. We rely solely on your certification and documentation that you submit to us with any hardship withdrawal request and you will be responsible for all penalties, fines, and other losses in the event you submit any false or inaccurate information to us. Participants can submit an application on our platform. It generally takes seven to ten business days to review a hardship application once it is submitted in Good Order. You must be a current employee to be eligible to take a hardship withdrawal.

10. Proxy Voting

We do not provide services with respect to voting proxies for securities held by the Plan nor take other action related to the exercise of shareholder rights regarding such securities.

11. Small Capital Gains, Interest, and Dividends for Deconverted Plans

Vestwell may receive de minimis dividends, capital gains, and interest after a Plan has deconverted from our platform to another provider. We will forward payment of all such compensation in excess of $25.00 to the Plan's successor recordkeeper.

12. Frequent or Excessive Trading

Frequent trading involves moving money in and out of mutual funds or other covered investment products as part of an investment strategy to seek short-term gains. Certain fund providers have instituted policies designed to reduce or eliminate that type of trading activity and require Vestwell to comply with their procedures.

Participants whose activity triggers their applicable fund provider's excessive trading, market timing, or other trading rules may have a purchase or exchange block on their account and may be limited in how often they can transact in that investment option. In the event of a block, we will allocate your funds equally to the other available investment options in your election that are not subject to the restriction. In the event all of the funds in your allocation are blocked from being purchased, we will not process the transaction. We will send you a notification if any of your selected investments could not be traded because of a block from the fund provider.

Participants who repeatedly violate the fund provider's trading policies may be subject to long-term or permanent blocks on purchase or exchange transactions and the fund provider may in its discretion restrict, reject, or cancel any purchases or exchanges. Vestwell will carry out those instructions in that regard and will not be liable for any damages relating to, arising out of, or for a participant's violation of the fund provider's trading policies.

12. Corporate Actions

From time to time, certain funds may undergo corporate actions such as mergers, splits, tender offers, or CUSIP changes. During these events, we may temporarily restrict trading in the impacted fund(s) or account(s) while transactions related to the corporate action are being processed. This restriction helps enable transactions — including contributions, withdrawals, and exchanges — to be accurately processed and reconciled, and prevents trades from being placed using outdated pricing or incorrect security identifiers. Trading restrictions, when necessary, are typically temporary and are lifted as soon as processing and reconciliation are complete.

If you have any additional questions about these Trading Policies, please contact us anytime at help@vestwell.com.
